MAINZ: Production has commenced in South America on Carthage's Lost Warriors, an HD documentary special co-produced by ZDF Enterprises.

The 1x50-minute production attempts to prove that South America was discovered and settled by Mediterranean seafarers more than 2,000 years ago. It features new archeological finds in the Amazon, genetic analysis of the modern population and an investigation of Chachapoya mummies. It ultimately suggests that refugees from Carthage may have fled to the continent after Rome conquered their land in 146 B.C.

Carthage's Lost Warriors is produced by ZDF Enterprises' doc.station.
